Transportation and Mobility

02

Getting to Rabat by Air

Rabat is easily accessible through several of Morocco's main international airports. Rabat-Salé Airport is the closest and most convenient option, with direct bus and taxi connections to the city. Casablanca Mohammed V Airport, Morocco's main international hub, provides extensive global connections and easy access to Rabat by train. Tangier Ibn Battuta Airport offers convenient access via the Al Boraq high-speed train, while Marrakech Menara Airport is another major international gateway, with train connections to Rabat.

From Rabat-Salé Airport to the City

Once you arrive at Rabat-Salé Airport, several convenient options are available to reach Rabat city centre.

Airport Bus

A dedicated airport bus connects the terminal to central Rabat. The service runs every 15 minutes and costs 25 MAD per passenger, with card payment available.

Official Airport Taxis

Official taxis are available directly outside the terminal. A transport kiosk in the public hall helps passengers arrange their journey. A trip to central Rabat costs 150 MAD during the day and 200 MAD at night.

Indrive App

The inDrive app is widely used in Rabat and provides a convenient door-to-door alternative, particularly for travelling directly to your hotel or the conference venue.

GETTING AROUND RABAT

Blue Taxis

Rabat's blue taxis are ideal for short trips within the city. They operate with a metered fare, with a minimum fare of 7 MAD, and can be hailed directly on the street.

The Rabat-Salé tramway

The Rabat-Salé tramway connects key areas including Agdal, Hassan, the city centre, the Medina and Salé. A ticket costs 7 MAD and can also be purchased through the Tram Mobile app.

White Taxis

White taxis connect Rabat with Salé, Témara, Skhirat and nearby destinations. They are generally shared, with fares ranging from 5 to 15 MAD depending on the destination.

White Ride-Hailing Apps

inDrive, Yango and Uber provide convenient ride-hailing services across Rabat, offering easy door-to-door transportation throughout the city. Payment is made in cash only.
